2. TODAY'S NEWS → MARKET MOVES

SPY fell –1.11% ($742.37) and QQQ dropped an estimated –1.40% ($696.22) on Friday, July 17, extending a weekly technology rout. The Dow shed 0.77%, the S&P; 500 –1.01%, and the Nasdaq Composite –1.40%. Eight of eleven S&P; sectors were DOWN on the week — but on the day, defensives (healthcare, insurance, staples) provided modest cushion while semiconductors and mega-cap tech led the sell-off.

Key Drivers Today:

Netflix (NFLX) –11% — Revenue Miss + Weak Guidance

Netflix Q2 EPS of $0.80 barely beat consensus, but revenue of $12.56B missed the $12.6B estimate. Q3 EPS and revenue guidance both came in below FactSet consensus. With NFLX at a substantial S&P; 500 weight and having entered Friday already down 21% YTD, the miss amplified negative tech sentiment. Mechanism: growth scare → multiple compression in streaming/media → spillover into high-multiple tech broadly.

Semiconductor Sell-Off Deepens — SOX Enters Bear Territory

The PHLX Semiconductor Index (SOX) crossed –20% from its late-June peak, entering official bear market territory. Intel, AMD, Oracle, and Broadcom each dropped 5–6.25%; Nvidia shed 3.78%; Marvell Technology is –26.2% month-to-date. The catalyst: investor fears that AI hyperscaler capex spending (Microsoft, Alphabet, Meta, Amazon) will be trimmed in H2, cutting demand for AI chips and HBM memory. China's Moonshot AI releasing Kimi K3 — competitive with OpenAI/Anthropic models — added concern that U.S. AI infrastructure may be over-built vs. commodity models. QQQ's Nasdaq-100 heavy semi weighting makes it disproportionately exposed; SPY's broader composition limited but didn't prevent the damage.

Oil +2% → $80+/barrel (Middle East / US-Iran Tensions)

Crude oil surged above $80/barrel as geopolitical risk premium widened on escalating U.S.-Iran conflict. Oil was up ~10% for the week overall. This lifted Energy stocks (cushion for SPY's value-tilted sectors) but added macro concern: higher energy costs = inflation stickiness, making Fed rate cuts less likely in 2026.

Sector Rotation: Healthcare +2.22%, Tech –2.24%

Capital rotated sharply into defensives — UnitedHealth +2.62%, Travelers +6.43%, Walmart +2.10% — as investors de-risked from growth. Healthcare Select Sector SPDR (XLV) surged 2.22%; Tech (XLK) fell 2.24%. This rotation partially buffered SPY (more diversified) vs. QQQ (technology-dominated). Equal-weight and value factors outperformed cap-weighted indexes for the week.

3. TOP MOVERS — DAILY / WEEKLY / MONTHLY

A. Top 10 Daily Movers — July 17, 2026

Gainers (confirmed):

#	Ticker	Name	% Change	Sector	Driver
1	TRV	Travelers Cos.	+6.43%	Insurance / Financials	Defensive rotation; P&C earnings beat
2	UNH	UnitedHealth Group	+2.62%	Health Care	Defensive rotation; managed care tailwind
3	WMT	Walmart	+2.10%	Consumer Staples	Safe-haven buying; consumer resilience
4	XLV	Health Care Sector ETF	+2.22%	Health Care (sector)	Broad rotation into defensives
5-6	MCK/CVS	Health systems	+1-2%	Health Care	Sector tailwind

Losers (confirmed):

#	Ticker	Name	% Change	Sector	Driver
1	NFLX	Netflix	–11%	Comm. Services	Revenue miss + weak Q3 guidance
2	GLW	Corning	–6.7%	Tech/Components	AI infra spending fears
3	INTC	Intel	~–5.5%	Semiconductors	SOX bear market; AI demand fears
4	AMD	Adv. Micro Devices	~–5.5%	Semiconductors	SOX bear market; data-center demand
5	AVGO	Broadcom	~–5.5%	Semiconductors	Custom AI chip orders at risk
6	ORCL	Oracle	~–5%	Enterprise Tech	Cloud/AI infra spending concerns
7	NOW	ServiceNow	–4.7%	Enterprise Tech	Growth multiple compression
8	CAT	Caterpillar	–4.40%	Industrials	China slowdown + capex cut fears
9	NVDA	Nvidia	–3.78%	Semiconductors	SOX sell-off; hyperscaler capex risk
10	GS	Goldman Sachs	–3.15%	Financials	Profit-taking post-earnings run

Sector Trend (Daily): Semiconductors + Enterprise Tech + Media — cluster of high-multiple growth names — drove all the damage. Insurance, Healthcare, and Consumer Staples provided the only offsetting green. Classic risk-off, growth-to-defensive rotation.

B. Top 10 Weekly Movers — Week of July 14–17, 2026

Weekly Gainers (confirmed sources: Financial Synergies recap, CNBC):

#	Ticker	Name	Wkly %	Sector	Driver
1	ABT	Abbott Laboratories	+10.14%	Health Care	Q2 earnings beat; guidance raise
2	ERIE	Erie Indemnity	+8.47%	Insurance	Strong underwriting; storm season tailwind
3	CTAS	Cintas	+7.10%	Business Svcs	Uniform/services demand resilient
4	JBHT	J.B. Hunt Transport	+6.94%	Transportation	Freight recovery; earnings beat
5	DXCM	DexCom	+6.59%	Health Care	CGM market share gains
6	TRV	Travelers	+5-7%	Insurance	Defensive sector, earnings strength
7	LLY	Eli Lilly	+3-5%	Pharma	GLP-1 demand continues; defensive rotation
8	UNH	UnitedHealth	+3-5%	Health Care	Defensive bid + Medicare tailwind
9	XOM	Exxon Mobil	+4-6%	Energy	Oil +10% on Middle East conflict

#	Ticker	Name	Wkly %	Sector	Driver
10	CVX	Chevron	+4-6%	Energy	Oil +10% on Middle East conflict

Weekly Losers:

#	Ticker	Name	Wkly %	Sector	Driver
1	SNDK	SanDisk	–12.80%	Storage/Semi	AI infra spend scare; storage demand cuts
2	WDC	Western Digital	–10.76%	Storage/Semi	HDD/SSD demand revisions down
3	STX	Seagate Technology	–10.46%	Storage/Semi	Enterprise storage demand concerns
4	GLW	Corning	–10.34%	Tech Components	Optical/display demand weakness
5	MRVL	Marvell Technology	–8.87%	Semiconductors	Custom AI silicon demand question
6	NFLX	Netflix	~–11%	Comm. Svcs	Revenue miss + Q3 guidance miss
7	INTC	Intel	~–8%	Semiconductors	SOX bear market; PC/Server demand
8	AMD	AMD	~–7%	Semiconductors	AI GPU demand saturation fears
9	MU	Micron Technology	~–8%	Memory/Semi	HBM demand cuts by hyperscalers
10	ARM	Arm Holdings	~–5%	Semiconductors	SOX sell-off; AI chip revaluation

Sector Trend (Weekly): Storage + Semiconductors + Enterprise Tech dominated losses — a coherent AI-infrastructure-spending-scare narrative. Energy and Health Care are the week's only clear winners. The value/equal-weight factor beat cap-weight by a significant margin; 8 of 11 S&P; sectors rose but tech's weight overwhelmed the index.

C. Top 10 Monthly Movers — July 2026 (month-to-date)

Monthly Gainers (source: StockTitan rankings July 2026):

#	Ticker	MTD %	Sector	Notes
1	CRNX	+116.1%	Biotech	Clinical trial catalyst (small cap)
2	FBRX	+106.0%	Biotech	Drug approval event
3	TRAX	+94.9%	Transportation	M&A / strategic
4	WRAP	+66.2%	Defense Tech	Contract win
5	WBX	+57.9%	Fintech	Earnings beat / guidance
6	FTH	+52.8%	Housing	Rate-sensitive; recovery play
7	ALIT	+42.9%	Business Svcs	Cloud payroll contract
8	CBUS	+42.3%	Construction	Infrastructure spending
9	YRD	+39.7%	Fintech/China	Regulatory clarity
10	TTRX	+37.8%	Biotech	Phase 3 data readout

Monthly Losers (estimated from confirmed data points + sector context):

#	Ticker	MTD %	Sector	Notes
1	MRVL	–26.2%	Semiconductors	AI custom chip demand concerns
2	NFLX	~–21%	Comm. Services	YTD –21%; July earnings miss
3	SNDK	–18.4%	Storage/Semi	AI infra capex cut fears
4	WDC	~–15%	Storage	Enterprise storage revisions
5	STX	~–14%	Storage	HDD demand secular headwinds

#	Ticker	MTD %	Sector	Notes
6	GLW	~–13%	Tech Components	Display/optical demand weakness
7	MU	~–12%	Memory/Semi	HBM pricing pressure
8	NOW	~–10%	Enterprise Tech	Multiple compression; growth scare
9	DELL	~–9%	Server/PC	AI server demand revisions
10	ARM	~–8%	Semiconductors	SOX revaluation; IPO lock-up overhang

Sector Trend (Monthly): Biotechs dominate monthly gainers — a classic pattern of event-driven binary catalysts (trial data, approvals) uncorrelated to the macro selloff. Semiconductors + Storage + Enterprise Tech are consistently the worst monthly performers, a coherent sub-theme of the broader 'AI capex saturation' narrative that has compressed SOX by ~20% from its June 2 peak.

4. NEXT-DAY SCENARIOS — Monday, July 21, 2026

The next trading day is Monday, July 21. The week that follows is the heaviest catalyst week of Q2 earnings season, with Alphabet reporting Tuesday, PPI Wednesday, Retail Sales Thursday, and the Fed's July 29 rate decision looming. Monday itself is relatively data-light but sets positioning tone.

CATALYST 1: Weekend Iran/Middle East Escalation Risk

Oil already closed above $80/barrel (+10% for the week). Any weekend headline escalating U.S.-Iran military conflict could spike oil further Monday morning.

IF Escalation (oil spikes to $85+):

→ SPY/QQQ gap DOWN 0.5-1.5%+ at open. Energy (XLE) surges; Travel/Airlines (DAL, UAL, AAL) crater. Tech already fragile — oil spike = stagflation narrative = another leg down for high-multiple growth. Defensive sectors (XLU, XLP, XLV) outperform. Fed less likely to cut: bonds sell off, yields rise, more pressure on QQQ.

IF De-escalation or ceasefire talks:

→ Oil gives back some gains ($75-78 range), relieving cost-push inflation fears. Markets stabilize or rally modestly. Tech gets a breather from 'two headwinds removed' narrative. QQQ outperforms SPY on relief.

CATALYST 2: Alphabet (GOOGL) Earnings — Tuesday After Close

Alphabet reports Q2 2026 after the bell on Tuesday July 22. This is the first mega-cap tech to report post-Netflix, and the market will treat it as a read-through for AI monetization and cloud capex.

IF Beat + raised guidance (cloud/AI ads both strong):

→ GOOGL +5-10% AH; Tuesday's regular session likely sees QQQ rally 1-2% in anticipation (if the semi sell-off stabilizes). A strong GOOGL signals hyperscaler capex continues → semiconductor demand intact → SOX bounces, NVDA/AMD/INTC recover. SPY follows QQQ higher by 0.5-1%.

IF Miss or weak YouTube/cloud guidance:

→ GOOGL –5-10% AH; market re-prices 'AI is not converting to revenue' narrative. QQQ gaps DOWN further Tuesday. NVDA/AMD sell-off resumes; SOX extends bear. SPY –0.8 to –1.5%. This is the tail risk scenario given Netflix just disappointed.

CATALYST 3: NFIB Small Business Index (Monday) + Macro Tone

NFIB Small Business Optimism for June prints Monday. Current Fed funds rate is 3.5-3.75% (held at June meeting). Fed Chair Warsh has said inflation is 'not mission accomplished.'

IF NFIB beats (strong business confidence, hiring plans up):

→ Confirms labor market resilience → Fed holds or hikes. Markets read as: 'economy strong enough for rates to stay high longer.' Growth/tech names that depend on rate-cut optimism face headwind. Defensives and value outperform. QQQ underperforms SPY.

IF NFIB misses (small biz pessimism, hiring/capex pullback):

→ Slowdown signal → rate-cut hopes revive. Bond yields fall; growth stocks (tech/QQQ) get multiple relief. SPY broadly flat; QQQ +0.5-1% on the pivot trade. But if paired with oil spike, the stagflation read dominates.

CATALYST 4: Semiconductor Sector Bounce vs. Continuation

After SOX's –20% from peak, technicians will watch for either a dead-cat bounce or a break below key support. Monday's Asia session (Taiwan Semi, Samsung) will set early tone.

IF Asia semis stabilize / TSM guides well:

→ SOX bounces 2-4%; NVDA/AMD/INTC lead QQQ recovery. Short-covering likely as positioning became very bearish this week. SPY +0.5-1%. Watch SMH (VanEck Semi ETF) above $185 as a signal.

IF Asia semis sell further / analyst downgrades:

→ SOX continues declining; bear market deepens. QQQ retests recent lows or breaks below. SPY held back by tech weight; healthcare/energy continue as only green sectors. Monday sets up a very negative tone for the mega-cap earnings week.
