* SPY/QQQ closes are estimated: SPY = prior close × 1.015 (S&P; +1.50%); QQQ = prior close × 1.011 (Nasdaq-100 +~1.1%, as chip weakness offset mega-cap tech surge). Dow, oil figures from confirmed sources.

2 · Today's News → Market Moves

S&P; 500 +1.50% | Nasdaq-100 +~1.1% | Dow +1.23% (record close)

Iran Diplomacy / Oil Collapse (Primary driver; +0.8–1.0 ppt to S&P;)

President Trump called off a planned military strike on Iran, re-opening Strait of Hormuz negotiations. WTI fell 5.97% to $79.62; Brent fell 5.69% to $82.92. Lower energy costs reduce input inflation across the economy, push rate-cut expectations slightly higher, and relieve geopolitical risk premium. Energy sector sold off (short-term revenue hit) but broad market surged as consumer/industrial margins improved. The oil drop alone likely contributed 80–100 bps to SPY.

Amazon AWS Earnings Blowout — $3 Trillion Milestone (+0.4–0.5 ppt)

Amazon reported Q2 revenues of $200.61B (est. $196.47B) and AWS revenue of $42.2B (est. $40.54B, +~30% YoY). AMZN stock surged +5.2% to $285.79, briefly crossing a $3 trillion market cap for the first time. AWS strength validated AI-cloud capex cycle and boosted the entire hyperscaler complex. Amazon is ~7% of QQQ.

Meta Platforms Ad Revenue Surge (+0.3–0.4 ppt to QQQ)

Meta recovered from its May selloff, rising +7% to $593.15 after Q2 advertising revenue climbed 27% to $59B. Strong ad spend signals healthy consumer and brand budgets. Meta is ~5% of QQQ; its 7% gain contributed roughly 35 bps directly to QQQ returns.

Microsoft & Alphabet AI Spending Confidence (+0.2–0.3 ppt)

MSFT +5% to $488.16 and GOOGL +5% to $374.40 continued momentum from prior week's earnings. Alphabet raised FY2026 capex guidance to $195–205B; Google Cloud grew 82% in Q2 to $24.8B. Hyperscaler capex acceleration signals AI buildout remains intact, lifting cloud software and data center supply chains.

ISM Manufacturing PMI 55.6 — 4-Year High (+0.1 ppt)

July ISM Manufacturing PMI printed 55.6 (vs 53.3 prior), the highest since May 2022, with New Orders at 56.7 and Production at 58.5. This 21st consecutive month of expansion confirms the US industrial re-shoring trend is intact. Cyclical sectors (industrials, materials) added modestly to SPY gains.

Philadelphia Semiconductor Index (SOX) -1.9% (Drag on QQQ)

Micron (MU) and Broadcom (AVGO) led chip stocks lower amid continued DRAM/NAND pricing pressure and margin concerns on AI-GPU ramps. The SOX decline offset mega-cap strength in QQQ, explaining why QQQ (+~1.1%) lagged the Nasdaq Composite (+2.1%). Semiconductor stocks remain a -0.4 ppt headwind on QQQ today.

Losing sectors: Energy across the board as oil prices retreated from June ATH highs on Iran diplomacy; Semiconductors (MU, AVGO, INTC) under pressure from memory oversupply and market-share shifts; Crypto-adjacent (COIN).

4 · Next-Day Scenarios — Tuesday, August 4, 2026

Calendar: AMD Q2 earnings (after close), Palantir Q2 earnings (before/at open), Disney / Shopify / McDonald's / Pfizer earnings during the day. ISM Services PMI is Wednesday Aug 5; Nonfarm Payrolls is Friday Aug 7. Iran talks continue off-market.

Catalyst 1 · AMD Q2 Earnings (After Close Tonight — Market Impact Tomorrow)

■ IF BEAT: Revenue >$11.2B + strong Instinct/Helios guidance:

THEN AMD +8–12% pre-market; SOX rebounds 1–2%; NVDA/AVGO sympathy up 2–3%; QQQ +0.6–0.8%; SPY +0.3–0.4%. Mechanism: validates AI GPU demand is not just NVIDIA and signals broad semis recovery. Watch Helios ramp guidance — margin pressure near-term but topline growth validates AI-infra cycle.

■ IF MISS: Revenue <$11.0B or weak guidance on Helios margins:

THEN AMD -8–15%; SOX -2–3%; ripple to NVDA/AVGO -2%; QQQ -0.5–0.8%; SPY -0.3%. Mechanism: semiconductor cycle concern deepens, AI capex narrative questioned. Would offset today's tech gains.

Catalyst 2 · Palantir Q2 Earnings (Expected Tues Pre-Market)

- IF BEAT: Rev >$1.81B + raised guidance, EPS >$0.35:
THEN PLTR +5–8%; AI defense software peers up 2–3%; SPY negligible (PLTR is ~0.25% of S&P;). However, Palantir's US Government AI contracts are a read-through for federal AI spending — bullish signal for broader enterprise AI.
- IF MISS or valuation concern (~P/S 61x already stretched):
THEN PLTR -10–15% (Motley Fool bearish preview materialized); AI software de-rating risk across sector; negligible direct SPY/QQQ impact but sentiment drag on high-multiple growth names.

Catalyst 3 · Iran / Strait of Hormuz Overnight Developments

- IF Talks progress; ceasefire framework announced:
THEN WTI falls below $75; S&P; futures +0.5–0.8% before open; Airlines/Transportation, consumer discretionary surge. Inflation expectations fall → 10-yr yields dip → rate-sensitive sectors (REIT, utilities) catch a bid. SPY +0.4–0.6% on open.
- IF Talks break down; Iran threatens Hormuz closure:
THEN WTI spikes toward $90; Energy +3%; Broad market -1.0–1.5% open; QQQ -1.2% (tech most rate-sensitive to higher-for-longer on oil inflation). Airlines -4%; Consumer staples defensive bid.

Catalyst 4 · ISM Services PMI (Wednesday Preview — Sets Tuesday Tone)

- IF ISM Services >54 (expansion, matches manufacturing strength):
THEN Soft-landing narrative reinforced; SPY continues rally +0.3%; Bonds sell off modestly; USD strengthens. Financials/cyclicals outperform.
- IF ISM Services <51 (near stall or contraction):
THEN Recession concern re-emerges; defensive rotation into utilities/healthcare; SPY -0.5–1.0%; yield curve steepens; small-caps (IWM) hit hardest.

----------------------------	-------------------	--	------------------------------------	---------

Key macro backdrop for tomorrow: NFP jobs report Friday (expected ~175K jobs). If jobs come in hot (+200K+), Fed expectations shift hawkish → SPY/QQQ give back 0.5–1.0%. If jobs miss (<150K), recession fear vs. rate-cut hope dynamic. AMD earnings are the single biggest near-term catalyst for QQQ direction Tuesday. Iran remains a binary overnight tail risk.
