1-yr return sourced from web searches (52-wk data). Historical prices.csv currently holds 2 confirmed trading days (Jun 26–29) due to upstream data-source 403 blocks; full backfill requires a non-blocked Yahoo Finance / data API connection.

Broader indices close (June 29, 2026): DJIA 52,182.74 (+0.59%) — first-ever close above 52,000, Alphabet's debut | S&P; 500 7,440.43 (+1.18%) | Nasdaq Composite 25,820.14 (+2.07%) | Nasdaq-100 +2.25%

2. Today's Market-Moving News

• US–Iran Ceasefire Announced

The US and Iran agreed Sunday to end hostilities in their four-month war, with a framework calling for reopening of the Strait of Hormuz as soon as Friday. Oil futures fell sharply; stock futures surged overnight. Asia surged Monday morning (Nikkei 225 +5.5%, Kospi +5.7%).

• Supreme Court Upholds Fed Independence — Lisa Cook Stays

SCOTUS ruled 5-4 (Chief Justice Roberts writing for majority) that President Trump cannot fire Federal Reserve Board Governor Lisa Cook — the first governor ever fired in the Fed's 111-year history — without cause. The ruling preserves the structural independence of the Fed Board.

• Alphabet Joins the Dow Jones Industrial Average

Alphabet (GOOGL) made its debut in the DJIA today, replacing a prior component. Shares rose approximately 4% in late morning trading, pushing the DJIA above 52,000 for the first time.

• Mag-7 / Hyperscaler Tech Rebound

After a paltry performance the prior week, large-cap tech stocks broadly rallied. The Nasdaq-100 gained +2.25%. Key names include Microsoft, Nvidia, Meta, Apple, Amazon.

• Iridium Communications +21% — Rocket Lab $8B Acquisition

Rocket Lab announced an $8 billion deal to acquire satellite-communications company Iridium. IRDM surged 21%; Rocket Lab (RKLB) gained 8.3%.

• Charter Communications +14.5% & Comcast +9.8% — Telecom Restructuring

Comcast unveiled a restructuring plan and reports surfaced of SpaceX discussions involving Charter, driving a sharp re-rating of cable/telecom.

• Viasat +14.2% — Defense/Space Wins

Viasat rallied on investor enthusiasm following recent contract wins with the US Space Force.

• PCE Inflation: 4.10% Annual (May 2026, released June 25)

Personal Consumption Expenditures rose to 4.10% YoY in May from 3.80% in April. Fed held rates at 3.50–3.75% for a 4th consecutive meeting (June 17 FOMC), dropped easing-leaning forward guidance; new Chair Kevin Warsh has adopted a hawkish-patience stance.

3. News → Today's Moves

SPY: ▲ 1.30% ($728.99 → $738.44) | QQQ: ▲ 2.25% ($707.12* → $723.00) (*QQQ prior close estimated from Nasdaq-100 +2.25% intraday move)

Driver	Direction	SPY Impact	QQQ Impact	Mechanism
US–Iran Ceasefire	++	+0.7–0.9%	+0.9–1.2%	Risk-on global surge; oil-cost deflation boosts growth expectations; supply-chain / logistics relief
SCOTUS: Fed Independence	++	+0.2–0.3%	+0.1–0.2%	Removes tail risk of politically compromised Fed; reduces rate-policy uncertainty; financial markets rally
Alphabet joins DJIA (+4%)	++	+0.1%	+0.5–0.7%	Index-inclusion forced buying from DJIA trackers; Alphabet is a top QQQ weight (~4%), boosting growth
Tech / Mag-7 rebound	++	+0.3–0.4%	+0.8–1.0%	Rotation back into growth after prior-week weakness; AI spend narrative re-affirmed; QQQ outperforms
Iridium / Rocket Lab initial launch	++	minimal	minimal	Idiosyncratic; boosts sentiment around "new space" / satellite; small absolute weight in index
Elevated PCE 4.1% –	–	offset ~0.1%	offset ~0.1%	Hawkish headwind — keeps Fed on hold, compresses P/E multiples; partially masked by risk-on

Summary: Today's +1.30% SPY and +2.24% QQQ were driven primarily by geopolitical relief (US–Iran ceasefire removing a four-month oil-shock and supply-chain risk premium), secondarily by the SCOTUS ruling preserving Fed Board independence (reducing rate-policy uncertainty), and thirdly by Alphabet's DJIA debut igniting a broader Mag-7 / tech rebound. QQQ outperformed SPY by ~94 bps given its heavier tech/Nasdaq-100 concentration. Elevated PCE (4.10%) acted as a mild headwind but was overwhelmed by the risk-on tone.

4. Next-Day Scenarios — Tuesday June 30, 2026

Context: June 30 is end-of-quarter (Q2 2026) — institutional rebalancing flows can amplify intraday volatility. The week is holiday-shortened (markets closed Friday July 4, observed). The dominant overhang is Thursday's June Jobs Report (July 2, released one day early).

1. Conference Board Consumer Confidence — June 2026 (Tue AM release)

IF Strong / Beat prior month: SPY +0.3–0.5%, QQQ +0.2–0.4% — Shows consumer resilient despite 4.1% PCE; validates soft-landing thesis; cyclicals and discretionary (XLY) outperform. Mechanism: higher confidence → forward spending → revenue visibility for S&P; 500 earners.

IF Weak / Miss prior month: SPY –0.3–0.6%, QQQ –0.2–0.4% — Consumer feeling inflation squeeze; stagflation narrative resurfaces; retail/discretionary sell off. Mechanism: confidence collapse historically leads spending by 1-2 quarters, threatening 2H EPS estimates.

2. US–Iran Ceasefire Durability (Developing Story)

IF Ceasefire holds / Hormuz reopening confirmed: SPY flat to +0.2%, QQQ flat to +0.2%; oil remains lower — Market has already priced much of the relief; confirming news is a gentle incremental positive. Energy (XLE) continues lower; industrials/transport benefit from lower fuel costs. No major SPY/QQQ reaction expected unless new positive details emerge.

IF Ceasefire fractures / new hostilities: SPY -1.5% to -2.5%, QQQ -1.5% to -2.0%; oil +3-5% — Violent reversal of today's gains. Mechanism: Strait of Hormuz closure risk reprices ~5-7% of global oil supply; inflation expectations spike → Fed stays higher longer → growth multiple compression hits QQQ hardest.

3. End-of-Quarter Rebalancing (June 30 = Q2 close)

IF Tech was Q2's outperformer — institutional rebalancing sells equities: QQQ -0.5% to -1.0% intraday pressure, SPY -0.2% to -0.5% — 60/40 funds and pension rebalancers mechanically sell equities (especially outperforming tech) to buy bonds at quarter-end. This is a technical / flow-driven move, not fundamental. Often reverses in the first days of July as new quarter begins.

IF Bond buying absorbs equity selling without large moves: SPY/QQQ range-bound ±0.3% — If bond demand meets the rebalancing supply cleanly, equities see mild volatility but no directional trend. Watch the last 30 minutes of the session (window-dressing flows).

4. June Jobs Report Preview Risk (Thursday July 2 — Shadow over Tuesday)

IF Consensus at ~110K payrolls; market positioning cautious ahead: Tuesday likely sees reduced risk-taking / higher-than-usual hedging — With jobs +172K in May and June consensus at +110K, investors are pre-positioning for a potential slowdown read. Any soft Tuesday data (confidence miss) could amplify Thursday-preview jitters, pulling SPY -0.5% to -0.8% as markets de-risk before the number. Mechanism: weaker jobs → potential Fed cut scenario → short-term negative (recession fear) but longer-term positive (easing).

IF Jobs report pre-leak / survey data surprises to the upside on Tuesday: SPY +0.5-0.8%, QQQ +0.4-0.7% — If ISM services or JOLTS (if released) signal labor-market strength, markets may trade relief (soft landing confirmed), especially with geopolitical risk now diminished. Financials and cyclical would lead.

5. Week-Ahead Calendar (Jun 30 – Jul 3, 2026)

Date	Event	Consensus / Notes
Tue Jun 30	Conference Board Consumer Confidence (Jun)	Prior month reading; June = Q2 close
Tue Jun 30	End of Q2 2026	Institutional rebalancing / window-dressing flows
Wed Jul 1	ISM Manufacturing PMI (Jun)	Manufacturing contraction / expansion threshold at 50
Thu Jul 2	June Employment Situation (BLS) — EARLY release	Consensus: ~110K NFP; May was +172K
Thu Jul 2	Initial Jobless Claims	Weekly labor-market pulse
Fri Jul 3	US markets CLOSED — Independence Day (observed)
